

Runway views and anti-jet lag massages: The airports around the world that have SWIMMING POOLS

- The VIP lounge at Punta Cana International Airport in the Dominican Republic boasts an outdoor pool
- The Westin Detroit Metropolitan Airport hotel has a heated indoor pool with views of the runway to boot
- Singapore's Changi Airport has a hotel rooftop pool that costs £10 per person for non-guests

Forget wandering the duty free aisles - try going for a dip instead.

It turns out that some airports offer customers a bit more than discounted shopping and fast food - they have swimming pools. Big ones.

Some are located within airport hotels, with access free for hotel guests - and open to non-guests for a fee.

But there's one that's outside and so close to parked planes you could almost splash them.

Walk-in entry for that stunner comes in at $50 (£40) per person, which isn't cheap, but surely worth it for the selfie potential.

Scroll down for the airport swimming pools guaranteed to make a splash.
